James "Jim" Riddle

Executive Director

Once again, Lexington County First Steps is pleased to have experienced another year of excellence in parenting programs to include traditional Parents As Teachers (PAT curriculum), Connected Families (also PAT curriculum) serving DSS Referrals and PASOS assisting new immigrant families to navigate available public services.

All of these services have exceeded expectations of required numbers to serve due to the dedication of staff who "own" their positions with much pride in what they are employed to accomplish. In addition, the long-standing Countdown to Kindergarten services for rising 5K since 2004 beginning with 50 students, continues to grow every year, particularly with federal funding from ESSER dollars (Elementary and Secondary School Emergency Relief). The addition of Countdown to Kindergarten for 4K has also added additional students to numbers served.

New federal ESSER funding has allowed additional PAT staff and/or increased hours in the five school districts for the first time ever with new funding of $529,000 over 3 years, 2022-2024.

Lexington County First Steps would like to partner one day with neighboring Newberry County First Steps to grow into a Quality Counts Program to serve Childcare Providers with improved quality services.

Serving Lexington County's children birth through age five.

"Mi educador de padres me brinda mucho apoyo y conecta con recursos para la comunidad muy utiles. Me trae al hogar actividades de aprendizaje para mis niños para ponerlos listos para la escuela y durante las actividades grupales mi niño aprende a compartir y hacer nuevos amigos."

"My parent educator is very supportive and always helpful by connecting me to community resources. She brings learning activities to my home for my children to do and to get them ready for school. Also, during group connections my child learns how to interact, share and make new friends with other children."

Undisputed research supports the urgency with which preschool aged children must be surrounded by rich experiences, not only in literacy and numeracy, but also with ample opportunities for motor development and social emotional development in order to be prepared for school.

Lexington County First Steps (LCFS) administers programs such as Parent As Teachers, which provides highly qualified personnel to work with children and families prior to entering school. In addition, the Countdown to Kindergarten summer readiness program for both 4K and 5K have proven the value of early intervention between the teacher-to-be and the rising kindergartener. LCFS also provide valuable resources to promote school readiness as well as connections to local organizations that help support a child's development and success in school.

Providing group connections across Lexington County in partnership with all 5 School Districts builds community and strengthens protective factors for all our children and their parents.
