

6 THINGS Kindergarten Teachers WANT YOU TO KNOW

Kindergarten is an important year for your child, and teachers have helpful insights to help make it a positive experience.

1

You are your child's first and most important teacher

Kindergarten teachers value your role as the parent. They're excited to join your team in helping your child grow and thrive.

2

When families and teachers work together, children benefit

Children flourish when families and teachers are on the same team. Feel free to ask for ideas on fun learning activities to do at home.

3

Communication is key

Stay in touch with your child's teacher throughout the year. Make sure they know the best way to communicate with you.

4

Share your story

Knowing what's special about your family, including any challenges, helps teachers support your child better.

5

Your child will become more independent

Kindergarten offers many chances for your child to be independent. Encourage them to try new things and remind them that it's okay to make mistakes.

6

Your encouragement matters

Your support is powerful. Simple phrases like "I know you can do it" and "You did it!" can go a long way. Let your child know you believe in them.
