

VISIT FOUR: WEEKLY ACTIVITIES FOR PARENTS

1. Continue to read with your child daily.
2. Use your magnifying glass to continue exploring your home and outdoor surroundings.
3. Have a follow up discussion with your child about how scientists are people who want to learn more about something that interests them. Ask your child to consider what he might like to study if he/her was to become a scientist. Visit the local public library or do an online search with your child to learn more about a topic that he or she would like to learn more about.
4. Review the parent handout, The Importance of Sleep.
